Erin Gill, City of Knoxville Chief
Policy Officer and Deputy to the Mayor

Cheryl Ball, City of Knoxville Deputy Chief, Economic and Community Development

Erin Gill and Cheryl Ball will take us through the evolution of Knoxville's Affordable Housing and Sustainability from early days to today.

- The City's early recognition that a home is not truly "affordable" if energy bills are too high --- and our adoption nearly 14 years ago of energy standards for our Community Development-funded projects.
- The alignment of efficient, affordable homes with the City's current sustainability goals and some of the successful projects (KEEM, weatherization, etc.) that embody that partnership.
- The growing need for affordable housing and the City's commitment to support affordable housing, both in the traditional sense as well as through increasing supply at all levels.
- Emerging best practice/exciting examples that bring these two concepts together, and tools the City's using to support projects, both public and private.

A Roundtable Panel of Construction Industry Professionals will follow Erin and Cheryl's presentation. They will discuss Emerging Best Practices to achieve Affordable Housing and Sustainability through Energy Star and weatherization.
